

'No Misconduct but Poor Judgment'

By Jon Powers

KINGSTON — District Attorney Francis J. Vogt said today that an investigation by his office into allegations of "misconduct" on the part of Ulster County Highway Superintendent Jose Camallonga Jr. has "turned up nothing which warrants criminal action."

But Vogt did say that the probe uncovered "several instances where Mr. Camallonga used very poor judgment and could properly be subject to criticism."

"If there was the slightest question of criminal wrongdoing, I'd present the matter to a grand jury," said the district attorney, "but there is no question . . . this is all very minor stuff. But certainly I think that Mr. Camallonga's interests, and the interests of the county, would have been better served if he didn't do some of these things."

One area where Vogt said Camallonga displayed "poor judgment" was the use of county highway department employees in the construction of his new home. The DA's investigation, however, revealed that the employees "worked on their own time and were paid by Mr. Camallonga. This was verified by the sworn statements of the employees involved and Mr. Camallonga's cancelled checks."

Vogt also said that Camallonga provided cancelled checks and receipted bills for the material that went into the house, disproving allegations that county materials were illegally used for the superintendent's own private purposes. And Vogt said that interviews with neighbors and county employees failed to produce any evidence that Camallonga used county equipment in the construction of his house.

The District Attorney said Camallonga used "poor judgment" in another instance when he purchased a used Army surplus Jeep from an Albany firm, which had earlier purchased the same Jeep from the county highway department. Vogt said Camallonga paid the same price (about $50 or $100) that the Albany firm paid to the county.

"Nothing illegal or criminal was found in these transactions," said Vogt, "but the practice, in my opinion, is a bad one since the opportunities for fraud and collusion are almost unlimited. It is my intention to recommend to the Bridge and Highway Committee of the Legislature that they consider changing this procedure (which allows county employees to purchase, indirectly, county equipment)."

A third instance where Camallonga displayed "poor judgment," according to Vogt, involved the demolition of a small brick building owned by the county. The contractor took the used bricks that he wanted, said Vogt; the rest were transported to Camallonga's home.

"Some of the labor may have been done on county time," said the DA, "but the delivery of the bricks was done by private truck."

Vogt said that many of the allegations which prompted his investigation "were sheer hearsay and completely without foundation. Others had some basis in fact, but were the result of the facts being misinterpreted."

During the investigation, which began July 17, Vogt said he interviewed all persons who claimed to have evidence of misconduct on Camallonga's part. Among those interviewed was Ulster County Legislator Glenn Debrosky (R-Dist.6), who said today he still believes there is evidence of wrongdoing. Asked if he thought the evidence warranted Camallonga's dismissal from office, Debrosky replied, "I'm not the district attorney. That's up to him."

Vogt also revealed that the New York State Department of Transportation (DOT) conducted a parallel investigation into alleged wrongdoings in the county highway department, but reportedly uncovered no supportive evidence. Vogt said he considers the matter "closed," but said the case will be reopened if new evidence is received.

Human Error Allowed Fumes To Fill Cabin of Astronauts

HOUSTON (UPI) — The break in communications with the descending spaceship lasted only a split-second. But it was just enough to cause a human error that forced hospitalization of America's last three Apollo astronauts.

During the break, space officials said, astronaut Vance Brand missed flipping two switches. The error allowed poisonous rocket propellant fumes to fill the Apollo cabin. Brand, coughing heavily from the thick, potentially fatal fumes, still managed to deploy parachutes to float the Apollo to a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

Glynn Lunney, director of the Apollo spacecraft program office, said air rushing into the cabin from outside — which also carried in the fumes — and a momentary squeal on the pilots' headsets made it too noisy for Brand to hear fellow astronaut Donald "Deke" Slayton's command to flip the switches.

On the water, commander Thomas Stafford dug out three oxygen masks, preventing further harm to the pilots' lungs from the yellowish-brown nitrogen tetroxide gas, officials said.

Brand, Stafford and Slayton were quickly hospitalized. They were to leave Tripler Army Medical Center today for

Singer Expresses Disappointment Over Withdrawal of Koenig

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON — Conservative Party chairman Bernard Singer says he's "really disappointed" that Mayor Francis R. Koenig pulled out of a Conservative primary, thus automatically giving the nomination to Singer.

"I was flexing my muscles for a real fight," Singer said. "I knew I was going to win. I was really looking forward to beating him."

Koenig said he decided not to accept the Conservative nomination he won on June 26 because he didn't want to create "dissention" in the Conservative Party.

County Conservative Chairman William Jackson takes issue with Koenig on that. "I would like to point out to the mayor that it's a little too late to worry about the unity of the Conservative Party. He (has) caused all the dissention possible when he recruited his support in the city convention."

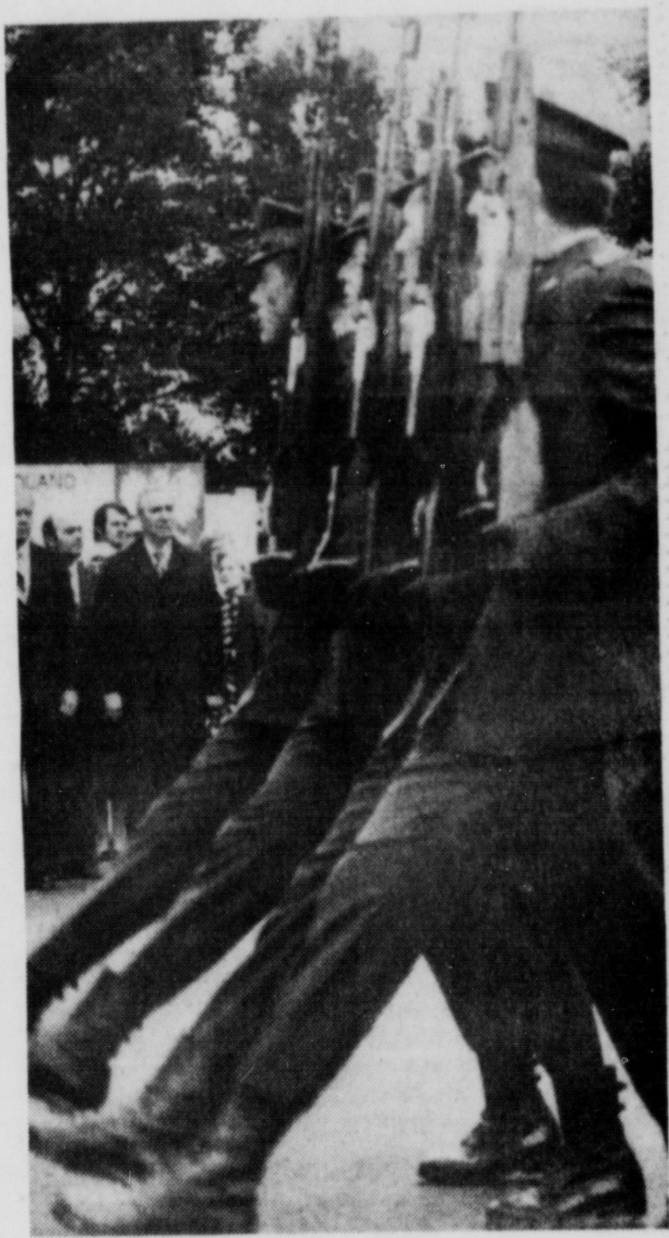

Singer rejects Koenig's suggestion, that the primary

President in Helsinki For 34-Nation Meeting

HELSINKI (UPI) — President Ford today joined the leaders of 34 other nations for an unparalleled summit meeting designed to establish rules for peace on three continents.

Fresh in Ford's mind was a ghastly reminder of what war has done to mankind — the mournful barracks, empty bunks, demolished crematoriums and barbed wire walls of the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz, which he toured just before leaving Poland.

Ford flew here from the south Polish city of Krakow on the third and most momentous leg of his five-nation European tour, joining Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, a delegation from Canada and the leaders of every European nation except Albania for a three-day security summit.

Related Story on Page 20.

They will hold busy bilateral conferences among themselves — including private Ford meetings with Brezhnev and with the leaders of Turkey and Greece — and then, on Friday, sign a document some view as a substitute for a World War II peace treaty.

Although not legally binding, it informally ratifies the state borders of Europe as they have emerged in the postwar world, pledges to change them only by peaceful negotiation and pledges respect for human rights and the principle of free movement across frontiers.

Critics, including many in the United States, claim the document in effect ratifies Soviet domination of Eastern Europe without getting substantial, enforceable concessions in return. Ford views it as "a step forward for freedom."

U.S. officials indicated the President had only a few ceremonial visits on his schedule today's schedule in Helsinki, including a protocol visit to Finnish leaders, and would begin serious business Wednesday. His first of two meetings with Brezhnev was scheduled for two hours Wednesday morning.

So many heads of state and government have not assembled in one place in Europe since the Congress of Vienna divided up Napoleon's losses in 1815, and the Finns laid on heavy security to protect them. Some 5,000 police plus an undisclosed number of army troops guarded the capital. Soldiers stood by with fixed bayonets at the airport.

Ford was somber and visibly saddened by his visit to Auschwitz — muttering softly, "horrible, unbelievable, horrible," as he stood with bowed head before the simple gray stone slab commemorating the 4 million to 6 million Jews and other victims killed there during World War II.

Atomic Plant Cooling Towers Will Not Affect Hudson Valley

TOWN OF LLOYD

A study released Monday by the Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) concludes, as expected, that natural draft cooling towers utilized at a nuclear generating facility in the Town of Lloyd would not have any adverse impact on the climate, weather or environment of the Mid-Hudson Valley.

ADA's report is based on an earlier study by Dames and Moore, and arrives at many of the same conclusions. In fact, some of the statistics and conclusions contained in this latest report have been previously cited by ASDA officials while defending the use of cooling towers in the Hudson Valley.

Cloin Robertson, ASDA's director of siting, said that the latest report is intended to simplify information contained in previous reports so that the date can be "more readily understandable by a non-technical individual."

Critics of nuclear power—in particular, those opposed to the location of nuclear power generating facilities on a 2,300 acre site in the Town of Lloyd currently owned by ASDA—have maintained that cooling tower emissions would add increased fog, cloud cover and icing conditions in the vicinity of site, and could adversely affect the productivity of apple orchards and vineyards in Southern Ulster County.

The potential for ground level icing to occur due to natural draft cooling tower operation at the Lloyd site was analyzed. Based upon this analysis, it was predicted that no ground level icing would occur as a result of natural draft cooling tower operation.

Ground Level Temperature and Humidity Changes: Analysis of humidity changes at ground level due to cooling tower operation at a facility in Pennsylvania similar to the potential Lloyd site yielded an increase of as much as one percent on only one occasion in a year. Comparable results are predicted at the Lloyd site. Obviously, only on occurrence of as much as a one percent change in ground level humidity is a miniscule effect.

Cloud Production and Precipitation: "The most that a natural draft cooling tower plume could generate at temperatures about zero degrees centigrade would be a light drizzle, and then only under rather special meteorological conditions . . . It is possible, considering the size of droplets in a cooling tower plume to induce snowfall from a cooling tower plume; however, the snowfall would occur only under the plume. Again, very special meteorological conditions are required for this phenomenon to occur . . . thus no significant induced snowfall would be expected from cooling tower operations."

Paltz Mains Would Add Protection

By Carl Graham

NEW PALTZ
The New Paltz Village Board Monday night voted to prepare specifications for installation of new eight-inch water mains along Plains Road between Main Street and the village limits.

Brinnier and Laros, village engineers, are to have the specifications ready for board action at its August meeting. The work will replace an existing four-inch main that Trustee John Logan said did not furnish enough water for fire protection for the 10 residences and one business firm along the road.

The vote was 4-1, with Trustee Judith Fractenberg opposed. She said that she did not feel the board had sufficient information on which to vote. "I'm not against giving those people (fire) protection," she said. "I just want more details before we vote."

Logan replied that the information had been in the hands of the trustees since June.

The action came after the board heard estimates from Brinnier and Laros for three different combinations of work. The estimate for installation only, with no improvement to pavements or railroad crossings, was $86,750, plus contingency and engineering fees. The cost for doing all the work was estimated at an additional $42,650, and for improvement work at crossings only $10,400. Logan, who made the motion to prepare specifications, said: "This project has been delayed for years. You are endangering the lives of these people." He also called on the board to consider making Plains Road a one-way street.

The board accepted the $9,607 bid of the Jacob Elting Agency for an all-inclusive insurance package for the village. Mrs. Fractenberg said that she had contacted six firms, but that the Elting quote was the only one received.

The board authorized Village Attorney J. Philip Zand to take legal action against the Pencil Hill Property Corporation, which he said had violated village density rules by building 12 more apartments on Southside Avenue than were called for in the building permit.

The New Paltz Garden Club, in a letter to the board urged high priority for a beautification project near the Grand Union parking lot at the corner of Main and Chestnut streets. Village crews will remove blacktop and install curbing around the plot where flowers will be planted. The garden club will assume responsibility for maintaining the area.

In other action, the board:

- Voted, at the request of the United Methodist Church, to remove the Sunday morning one-way traffic restrictions from Grove Street.

- Received a letter from Lillian Manney asking that a village park be put in the area formerly known as Huguenot Square. Board members noted that the tract is private property.

- Granted permission to close Huguenot Street to traffic at the entrance to the sewer plant and at Mulberry Street on the north on Broadhead Avenue at the church parking lot, and on North Front Street at the east end of the former Woods residence for Stone House Day, Aug. 2.

- Voted to publish legal notices in the New Paltz News effective July 30. The village's official newspaper, the New Paltz Independent, has gone out of business.

- Voted to spend $400 to air-condition the communications room in the police department.

Shades of 'Moby Dick'

HONOLULU (UPI) — Was it fish, mammal or tree trunk that sank the sloop Atorrante on the night of July 8?

Captain Jim Sherman still believes a whale collided with his vessel.

Dr. Carl Hubbs, whale authority at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, thinks it might have been a huge whale shark.

Swegn Hamren, navigator of one of two Transpacific Yacht Race vessels which went to the Sherman boat's aid, says the Atorrante probably hit a large log. He noted that several yachts crossing the Pacific in the same area 330 miles off the California coast had reported semisubmerged objects.

Sherman, 18, his mother

Nancy, his brother and three friends were not in the Transpac race but had embarked on their first open ocean sail with the 65-yacht fleet for safety.

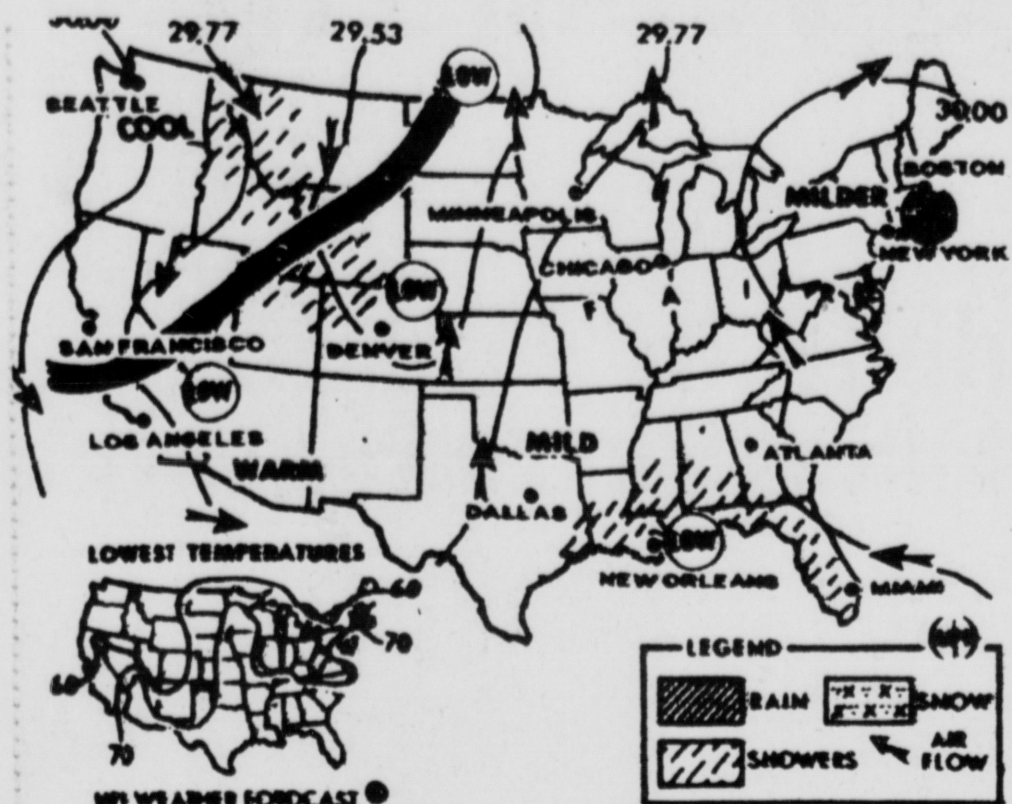

About midnight July 8, their 46-foot yacht struck something, took on water and sank. Their radio call for help had brought two Transpac vessels to their rescue.

The Swiftsure spotted their flares first and picked the six off liferafts. They were to be transferred to the race escort vessel Pakeha but elected to finish the sail to Hawaii with skipper Nicholas Frazee on the Swiftsure.

"It's very clear in my mind what it was," skipper Sherman said Monday, recounting his fruitless search for flotsam in the waters about the boat that could have accounted for the fatal jolt.

Sherman said he checked for leaks as the water gushed into the sloop, but could not find any above the water line, indicating to him that they were hit by something below the ocean's surface.

Sherman said his friend Ron Powell saw the whale first, and then he saw it, a "large, shiny gray object, phosphorescent."

School Officials to Testify

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Officials of two school districts appear in Albany next month to testify on State Education Department orders to integrate their public schools by the 1976-77 school year.

Commissioner Ewald B. Nyquist, apparently abandoning hopes of implementing integration plans by this fall, Monday said show cause orders were sent to the boards of education in Newburgh and Mount Vernon.

The department is continuing a review of the Buffalo, Lackawanna and Utica school districts, which also have been told to alter the racial makeup of their schools, Nyquist said.

The commissioner had set this September as a target date for the integration program, but has apparently abandoned his deadline. In February, the Board of Regents eased its stand on racial balance, a switch which forced Nyquist to revise the standards he used in drawing up his orders.

Coffee Marketers Hike Wholesale Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two major coffee marketers have increased their wholesale prices sharply in response to reports the worst cold wave in a half-century may have ruined up to 80 percent of Brazil's 1976 coffee crop.

It was not known how sharply retail coffee prices will increase. But the announcements Monday — General Foods hiked wholesale ground coffee prices 20 cents a pound, and Ehlers boosted its prices by 10 cents a pound — surprised coffee industry experts by their size and suddenness.

Sources on the London coffee market, the world's largest, have predicted retail coffee prices may be at least 40 percent higher by next year.

The 20-cent increases by General Foods Corp. affect these brands: Maxwell House, Sanka, Brim, Yuban, Max-Pax and Maxim. Instant coffee wholesale prices are going up 3 cents per ounce, a spokesman said.

Albert Ehlers Inc. said its 10-cent increases would affect all the firm's products.

The increases boosted futures prices on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, where raw coffee prices have increased 50 percent in the past month.

The Martinson Division of Tetley Inc. said it would decide today whether to raise its coffee prices.

Other coffee firms were expected to make similar price moves.

Reports from Brazil last week indicated freezing weather has destroyed between 70 and 80 percent of Brazil's 1.2 billion coffee trees, which produce one-third of the world's coffee. The United States buys about 60 percent of Brazil's total coffee exports.

There have been varying estimates from some quarters on the extent of the damage.

Brazilian officials said they would release reserve coffee supplies to stabilize supply-and-demand pressures. The Brazilian Coffee Institute announced last week: "For this year we have enough coffee to meet both our external and internal demands."

However, IBC president Camilio Calazans warned Brazilians they probably would have to pay more this year for their traditional cup of coffee.

The plans for both Mount Vernon and Newburgh deal with the 1976-77 school year and avoid mention of the session beginning in September.

Under the show cause order, Mount Vernon officials must appear Aug. 14 at the State Education Building in Albany to offer arguments against implementing the Nyquist order. A similar appearance was set for Aug. 21 for Newburgh school officials.

Sources within the State Education Department said the two districts were selected because the state was closer to an agreement with them than it was with the remaining three districts.

Both plans call for setting up a local grievance procedure for parents who object to the school their child has been assigned. The order allows a parent to protest if it is felt the assignment "imperils, contravenes or denies the child's right to health, safety and quality education."

Nyquist made a point of noting that "neither plan directs that any student be transported to school." The concept of forced busing of school children has raised heated objections.

Under the Mount Vernon plan, which basically was drawn up by the city's school board, the district would be divided into areas, and teachers would be assigned to an area rather than a particular school. They could be transferred to schools within the area, depending upon need.

The plan also calls for converting school programs to "area programs."

State Police Investigate Death

BARRYTOWN

A young Phoenix, Ariz. man dropped dead while jogging at the Unification Church complex in this Red Hook neighborhood today with a tentative verdict of heart failure accorded the incident.

According to state police at Rhinebeck, Larry Alan Whaley, 20, of Phoenix was working out in the 6 a.m. sunshine at the church training center when he collapsed to the ground. Whaley was reportedly a member of the Korean-based sect.

Witnesses at the scene attempted resuscitation, said police, as did the Red Hook Rescue Squad when it arrived, but to no avail. Dutchess County Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. William Bennett pronounced Whaley dead at the scene and issued a tentative verdict of heart failure.

An autopsy was scheduled for today at Northern Dutchess Hospital State police investigators were called to the scene.

back room, calling police. The would-be assailant apparently fled on foot, said police.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department, state police, and village police were immediately notified and roadblocks were set up in the area. Investigation is continuing by town police.

And, three youngsters, two in their teens, were arrested by state police in Highland this morning for allegedly breaking into Mariner's Harbor Restaurant's soda machine at about 6 a.m., totally destroying it, and taking $64.90 in change.

They were scheduled for arraignment today before Town of Lloyd Justice Lewis DiStasi on charges of felonious criminal mischief; attempted burglary, a felony; and larceny, misdemeanor.

Arrested were Albert Donstant, 22, of Highland; Anthony Samitsch, 18, of West Park; and Theodore Canino, 16, of Highland.

And a 15-year-old Kingston juvenile was remanded to the Highland Training School Monday afternoon by Family Court after he was arrested for stealing a Saugerties man's car in Kingston.

The youth, not identified because of his age, and with a record of auto thefts, according to police, was allegedly spotted by Town of Ulster constables on Route 32 at Old Flatbush Road shortly after they had been notified of the car theft by Kingston police.

New Grain Deal

Some Americans may have mixed emotions about news that the Soviet Union is back at our door buying grain. The big "Russian grain deal" of 1972 is fresh in our memory, with its hint of speculative profiteering. We remember the ensuing grain shortage that drove up prices of baked goods and meat, and we recall the sting of knowing that the Russians were getting American grain at bargain prices subsidized by the U.S. taxpayer and pride for with credits backed by our government.

This time around, however, we can view the sale of grain to the Soviet Union with something more like satisfaction. There is every reason to believe, along with Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, that the impact on our food prices will be negligible because of the bumper crops of grain in prospect for our farmers.

New market reporting requirements apparently have undercut the opportunity for speculative profits in grain futures, and the Russians are paying prevailing market prices.

Sorting out these significant differences between 1972 and 1975, we can draw some conclusions about agriculture and economics, American-style and Soviet-style.

On our side, we are seeing the benefit of a new farm policy encouraging farmers to sow their land to the hilt. Crop surpluses once viewed as a threat that had to be controlled by government programs can now be seen as the asset they really are.

Our grain surpluses this year will become an export helping offset the serious impact of foreign oil purchases on our international balance of payments. Furthermore, those surpluses will help keep grain at a reasonable price for poor countries that import foodstuffs and suffered the most when prices rose sharply in 1972.

On the Soviet side, the Russians have been unable to negotiate their new grain purchases without confessing that once again their own agricultural system has been unable to provide for the vicissitudes of a dry year. Collective and state farms were unable to meet the 1975 quotas for grain deliveries assigned to them under the current five-year plan.

This fact should not be lost on those Americans who have been flirting with the idea of Soviet-style economic planning as a means of smoothing out cycles of boom and recession in our economy. In terms of prices and unemployment the Soviet economy can boast of a high degree of stability. The trouble is, the "Gosplan" theory is stabilizing it at levels of failure—from chronic shortfalls in food production across the spectrum of commodities and manufactured goods which the Soviet system has never been able to produce in quantities that would lift the living standard of the Russian people to levels enjoyed in the free industrial nations of the West.

It is not a plan but the incentive of the marketplace that makes American agriculture and industry as efficient as it is, and we need to keep that in mind.

Astros' Age

People over 40 who have the feeling they are going downhill can get some special satisfaction out of the link-up of the Apollo and Soyuz spacecraft. A look at the crew-list of this U.S.-Soviet venture suggests that gray hair is no bar to wearing a space helmet. The youngest man in the group is 40—the cosmonaut, Valery Kubasov. The oldest is Donald K. (Deke) Slayton, who is in space for the first time at the age of 51.

One of the problems of middle age is that opportunities for Walter Mitty daydreams begin to dwindle. You'll never make it as a matinee idol—never knock one over the fence to win the World Series. But thank goodness there is still some chance for adventure out there in space for those in the seasoned maturity of the middle years—even if they might need some help getting into their space suits.

"If you don't mind — I'd rather not know where Susan Ford is and what she's doing this week. It makes me too envious!"

By Jack Anderson with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—The Justice Department is poking delicately into a hornet's nest of complaints against the big auto insurance companies.

Such firms as Allstate, GEICO, Nationwide, State Farm and Motors Insurance allegedly have been sending accident victims to unethical repair shops, which do shoddy, unsafe work.

Justice officials would tell us only that they are "evaluating the complaints." They wouldn't go so far as to say they are planning a formal investigation.

There have been preliminary inquiries, nonetheless, whether the business practices of the auto insurers violate the antitrust or other federal laws.

At stake is a shopping $6.3 billion a year in auto repair bills, which the insurance companies pick up. Most companies, of course, seek the lowest possible damage estimates. All too often, these are submitted by cheap, unregulated shops, which save money for the insurance companies at the expense of the motorists.

These "low-ball" shops, as they are called in the trade, do a cosmetic repair job, which may satisfy the unsophisticated accident victim. He drives away, however, in a repaired vehicle with a value far lower than it looks.

We were able to contact spokesmen for all the companies named above. All denied any wrongdoing; all except Nationwide also expressed surprise to hear the Justice Department's interest. They seek the lowest bids, said the spokesmen, to keep premiums and repair costs down.

A spokesman for the complaining independent repair shops described the insurance business as "a huge game of hanky-panky" and "a jungle of settlements." He charged that the insurance companies "boycott quality shops in favor of low-ballers who can stay in business only by ripping off the unsuspecting motorists."

Footnote: Rep. Tom Downey, D-N.Y., is pressing the Justice Department to intensify its probe of the auto insurance industry.

ONE MAN'S BATTLE: David B. Lindsay, Jr. will sit down before a congressional committee this week to relate the remarkable tale of one man's lonely battle against the Pentagon bureaucracy.

Lindsay, publisher of the Sarasota, Fla., Herald-Tribune, has spent over $1 million of his own money to build a combat airplane that is simple, cheap, rugged and efficient.

Even the brass hats have reluctantly admitted it is a marvelous machine. Nevertheless, they have refused to give it full flight tests, much less buy it.

Based on his years of experience as a pilot and designer, Lindsay built his plane, which he calls the Enforcer, to provide "close support" for ground troops. It is heavily armored and can carry any weapon in the Air Force arsenal up to 1,000 pounds.

To achieve the same performance as the Enforcer, the Army, Marines and Air Force are tinkering with machines that cost four or five times as much. The Air Force's A-10 light bomber, for example, will cost $4 million apiece, as compared to $1 million for the Enforcer.

Yet the Enforcer can fly faster, slower and farther. Because of its minimum jet exhaust, it is far less vulnerable, too, to heat-seeking missiles. It can also take off from unimproved roads and muddy fields.

In 1973, the Pentagon reluctantly agreed to do a computer study of the Enforcer. It passed its "paper tests" with flying colors, yet the brass hats still don't want it.

The disappointed designer has now taken his case to Capitol Hill where he will testify before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee. Chairman Thomas McIntyre, D-H.H., in a private letter to Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., has explained why he is holding hearings.

"The Enforcer's sponsors really are facing an overwhelming bureaucratic stubbornness . . ." he wrote. "You've heard me complain about this kind of bullheadedness in the Pentagon. I really don't know when we will ever be able to bang some sense into the Air Force on this — no matter what we do. But we keep trying."

We have spoken to a number of sources in the military, industry and Congress who believe the brass hats won't give the Enforcer complete flight tests because they are afraid it would embarrass the Pentagon by outperforming more expensive machines.

Footnote: An Air Force spokesman said the Enforcer had been thoroughly tested. There is "no disagreement regarding its projected performance," he acknowledged. But he claimed Air Force studies indicated the A-10 would perform better and be more "cost effective."

WATCH ON WASTE: The head of solid waste at the Environmental Protection Agency, Arsen Darnay, had planned a wasteful trip to the Soviet Union at the taxpayers' expense during his last week in government.

When we questioned EPA chief Russell Train about this lameduck junket, he cancelled it within 30 minutes after our call. The brash Darnay had planned the trip, by the way, while his office was being investigated by the General Accounting office for travel irregularities.

On the Right

The Situations in India and Chile

By William F. Buckley

Indira Gandhi has one of the weaknesses of Richard Nixon, to wit a curdling sanctimoniousness. Nobody in the whole wide world has behaved more self-righteously than she over the years, so that now that she betrays the expedient nature of her devotion to human rights, she is getting very severe treatment — from quarters that, in the past, have been guilty of extreme unctious toward India.

One should note, however, that the lady is not, as a polemicist, by any means defenseless. She got off a very nice crack the other day, speaking to what is left of the press in India, when she remarked that, after all, there were only a thousand or so Indians behind bars; that perhaps if she increased that number a thousand-fold western statesmen and intellectuals would treat her regime as enthusiastically as they treat Mao Tse-tung's Touche.

The Indian problem has diverted attention from the Chile problem. When last heard from, Augusto Pinochet abruptly suspended his government's invitation to a United Nations human rights group to come into the country and investigate the treatment there of political prisoners. Pinochet's disinclination was a great act of awkwardness, throwing his entire diplomatic corps into disarray. But here is an inside story, as received from an Argentinian who has known Santiago for years and was there when it all happened, and whose own sympathies are both anti-Allende and anti-the current regime.

1. Pinochet is an unusual man, separated psychologically from the tradition of the popular leader who seeks to curry favor. He is more like Salazar than like Indira Gandhi. Salazar governed Portugal according to his own lights, paid not a moment's attention to foreign criticism, yet sought to maintain standards of his own. Unlike, say, the Papa Docs who rule only to slake their own thirst for power, Salazar was moved by a private vision. Pinochet is of this breed.

According to one report, he has developed intimate relations with one or two men who believe fanatically that Chile needs to be reborn. That the whole experience of Allende has set back political democracy for a generation. That the awful inflation that undermined the nation's free institutions has to be purged by a period of corporate remorse. The annealing experience of many years of self-abnegation is required to bring Chile back to where it can, once again, indulge genuine political freedom. These advisers were important influences on Pinochet. They insisted that the U.N. committee was irrelevant, and in any case predetermined to find the worst in Chile and magnify foreign opposition. Pinochet followed their advice.

2. But the Rasputins were not alone in influencing Pinochet. Several legal advisers had taken offense at the activities of the U.N. committee. When the agreement was reached last winter to admit that committee, it had been carefully specified that it was to investigate only the present state of freedom in Chile, not the activities of the ruling junta during the weeks that immediately followed the overthrow of Allende. Counter-revolutions tend to be brutal, and regimes should not, generally, be judged by excesses that are uncharacteristic of that regime when its power has consolidated.

It appears that the U.N. committee violated its agreement to the extent of having preliminary conversations with men who had been thrown out of Chile as long ago as a year. Pinochet's legal advisers insisted that their witness was bound to be distorted, and that the U.N.'s interest in their testimony suggested the turn the committee would take: the searching out of two-year-old horror stories for the purpose of circularizing information no longer relevant.

The lawyers may have been technically correct, but Pinochet's act was grievously wrongheaded — if indeed the situation in Chile is better than it was during the few weeks following Allende's overthrow. As things now stand, the whole world is entitled to assume that torture and arbitrary imprisonment in Chile continue, and that any disinterested investigation would publicize the fact.

Pinochet, my informant reports, has succeeded in doing himself the ultimate disadvantage: he has made his government out to look worse than it actually is. Perhaps in doing so he seeks that self-mortification the mystics are urging on him. But it is rough on Chile, and one hopes he will in due course lift that suspension, and let the U.N. committee go in. If he were to do so now it would be in wonderful contrast with India's awe-inspiring gall in asking members of the free press to become accomplices in the creeping totalitarianization of her country.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

A Peek at the Ruling Class

WASHINGTON—Apparently the first mention of the Bilderbergers in the public prints was made by Westbrook Pegler in 1957 toward the end of that ferociously articulate right-wing columnist's career. Mr. Pegler had gotten wind of the fact that Ralph McGill of The Atlanta Constitution and Arthur Hays Sulzberger of The New York Times, both now dead, had attended a secret meeting of international big shots on St. Simon Island, Brunswick, Ga., in February of that year.

From that time on the John Birch Society and the Liberty Lobby have stalked this group of high government officials, bankers, media executives, industrialists, Wall Street lawyers and attendant retainers from the academic world. Henry Kissinger was a Bilderberger during his days as a Harvard teacher and Rockefeller courtier.

The Bilderbergers have been given that name — they don't call themselves that — from the hotel where they first met in the town of Oosterbeek, Holland, in 1954 under the chairmanship of Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands. They have met annually in one NATO country or another ever since, always at a remote resort hotel, always in secrecy and always protected by the political police of the host nation.

The meetings, however, are in no sense official or governmental. The attendees are best described as the international power elite and have included David and Nelson Rockefeller, Robert McNamara, Baron Edmond de Rothschild, William Paley, chairman of the board of CBS, former Sen. William Fulbright, Cord Meyer of the CIA, William F. Buckley and George W. Ball, the former State Department man who achieved a brief fame for a degree of tepid, establishmentarian opposition to the late war. The officers of such companies as Alcoa, Standard Oil, H.J. Heinz, Time, Inc., Chrysler, Manufacturers Hanover Trust, Washington Post-Newsweek, and Dillon Read, among others, have been reported as frequent attendees along with their counterparts from most of the nations of Western Europe.

That alone might make the Far Right suspicious, but the guest list has also included socialists like Helmut Schmidt, West Germany's Chancellor, and France's Gaston Defferre, who, it is alleged, was the Bilderberger's candidate to topple de Gaulle. Such a mixture of men, political parties and economic interests has served to confirm the right-wing suspicion that persons like the Rockefellers are in league with the social democrats or even the Communists.

Occasionally a Bilderberger has tried to explain what these meetings are about. In 1964 Sen. Jacob Javits, one of a number of congressmen who've attended, said the purpose is merely to "create a better understanding of the forces and trends affecting Western national."

That kind of Wheatena hasn't allayed right-wing anxieties. Thus in 1971 the reactionary Manchester, New Hampshire, Union Leader charged that the Bilderberger conferees of that year were given advance notice of President Nixon's upcoming shift in economic policies, making it possible for them to pocket as much as $20 billion. More recently a Liberty Lobby publication put the blame for the overthrow of the Portuguese dictatorship on the Bilderbergers, saying that this opened the way for "the effective capture of the incredibly rich natural resources of Angola and Mozambique by the international Rockefeller cabal."

Even after the revelations of the last few years, upper echelon people consider the use of words like cabal and conspiracy as signs of emotional instability. But what is a conspiracy? It is an agreement by a group of people to do something that the user of the word conspiracy doesn't like.

In an extended sense, the Bilderberger conferees have been doing something that a lot of people don't like; they've been making and carrying out the military and economic policies of the North Atlantic Alliance. That doesn't mean that this "Cold War Internationale," as the meetings have been called, was making the decisions. Meetings like this popularize and familiarize people with ideas and are thus part of a long and intricate chain of social process by which ruling classes come to the consensus.

But to the people who don't get invited, these transactions can take on a sinister appearance. Every other group in our society gets studied, surveyed and observed, but not the upper classes. They don't let the world in to look at them and therefore they invite others to think the worst.

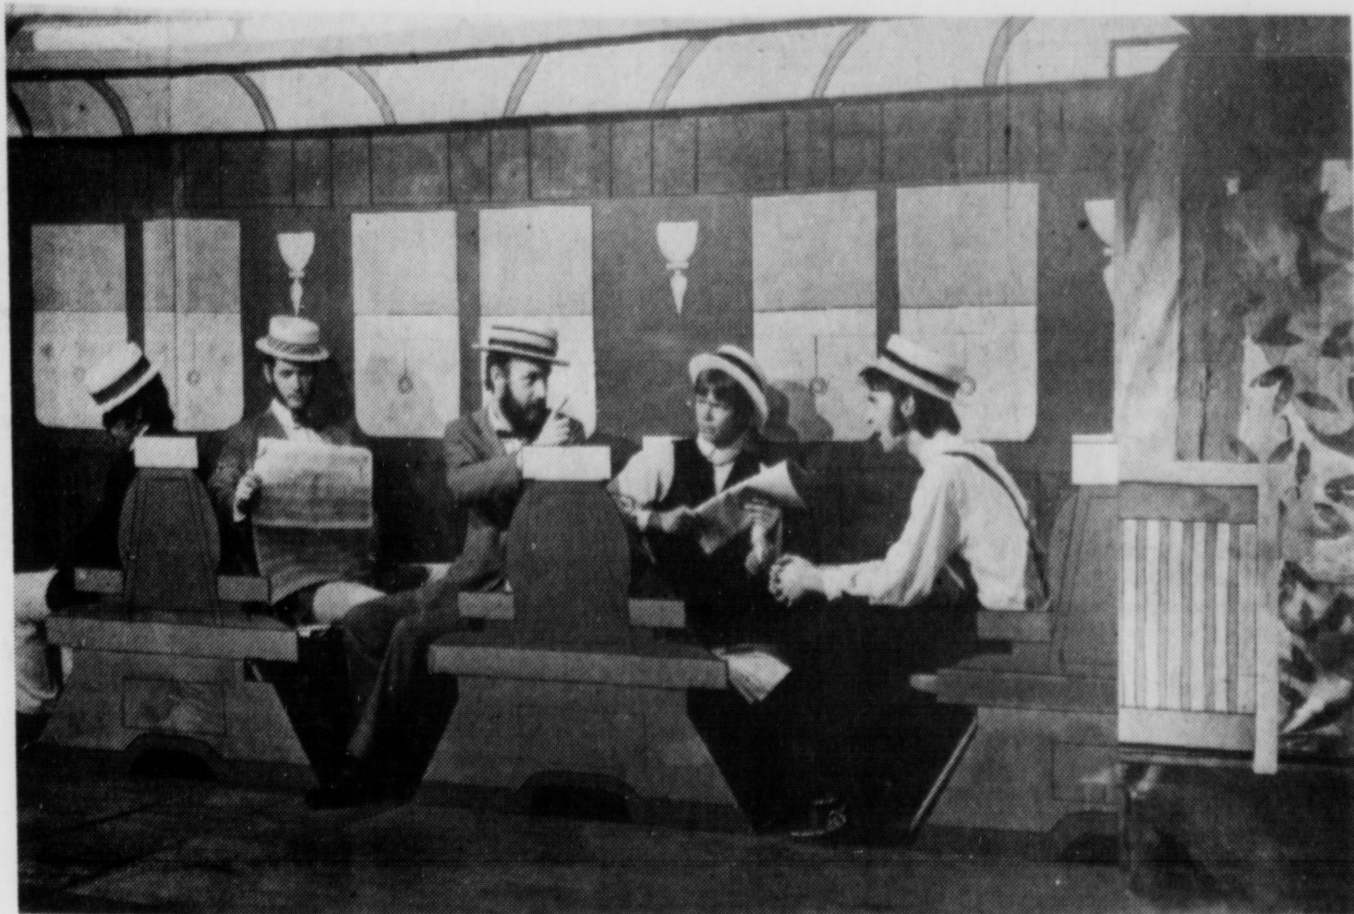

But you don't have to be a political paranoid to reason that informal meetings of major bankers, industrialists, professors, foundation executives, journalists and high government officials must have something to do with why and how powerful people come to nearly identical judgments. (For another look at this social process, see "The Bohemian Grove and Other Retreats: A Study in Ruling Class Cohesiveness," by G. William Domhoff, Harper & Row, 1974; and for more on our little cabal, see "Spotlight on the Bilderbergers," the Liberty Lobby, 300 Independence Ave., S.E., Washington 20003, $5.)

Far right-wing material on these subjects is often disregarded because they CAPITALIZE for emphasis and use a lot of exclamation points in their prose! That's bad form in the Ivy League, but it should not make us ignore that it was political analysts on the right who first raised questions about the multinational banks and corporations and the alarming union of capitalists and democratic socialists here and abroad.

Community Talents and Campus Expertise Adds Up to UCCC's Spectacular 'Music Man'

By Dorothy A. Narel

STONE RIDGE
That special magic has happened again at UCCC. It is a major event—a rousing production of Meredith Wilson's Music Man which has produced a unique marriage of community talents and effort with campus expertise adding up to a musical showpiece that won a standing ovation Friday night from an SRO house.

The musical spectacular is River City, Iowa, into organizing a children's band and all purchases made through him. The salesman, who can't read or play a note himself, holds off the town's discovery of his fraudulent ways with his "think" process of learning music. He's found out but, in the meantime, the librarian has fallen in love with him, the children "bail" him out by actually playing one selection, everyone forgives everyone and for Cindy not only sings like a professional, she has a warm, vibrant quality teaming her vocal talent with good acting abilities. She is not a stranger to music having performed as a pianist-organist in the Kingston area for many years and was accompanist and vocalist at the Driftwood Floating Theatre last summer. She is a graduate of Barrington College with a BA in English and has appeared with Coach House Players.

The male lead, Bob Santero, puts a lot of Robert Preston into his interpretation of the role and carries it off with ease. Santero has piled up quite a few acting credits. He spent two summers in White Oaks Theatre in Carmel, Calif., appeared with Coach House Players and was attached to the Special Services Division of the U.S. Army. This is the second show with UCCC.

Hats off to Adolph Allers for his role as Mayor Shinn. A talented actor, Allers is a graduate of Marist College and holds memberships in the Germantown Drama Workshop and Columbia Civic Players. He was the gangster in last year's production of Kiss Me Kate at UCCC.

There are several musical selections that are especially outstanding. The opening Rock Island, featuring the traveling salesmen Abe Robinson, Tom MacDonald and Shawn Williams, is outstanding. It is done by the traveling sales Hill and the townspeople.

Don't miss the song Pick-a-little done by Eulalie, Maud, Ethel, Alma, Mrs. Squires and Ladies of River City or Ship-oopi performed by Marcellus, Harold, Marian, Tommy, Zaneeta and children.

You will marvel at the new rotating sets, the costuming, choreography and music.

Also appearing in Music Man, which will be repeated Wednesday, Thursday, Friday

Productions are incredible in that people who meet casually at these auditions work together over a short period of six weeks to produce a king-sized show.

an example of the college's philosophy of involving the public with its "on campus" activities and, in the short history of UCCC's Summer Theatre, its "stock" is on a continual rise while a musical comedy format is making it one of the area's most popular attractions.

The college's concept for vital, alive theatre is further encompassed in this type of production for you are given plays that are well produced, presented with a good splash of fresh young talents along with mature professional thespians. Its success is mirrored also in the fact that a call for auditions brings people from areas outside of Ulster County.

The productions are incredible in that people who meet casually at these auditions learn to work together on a single project and are also capable, through dedicated hard work and long, long hours over a short period of six weeks, to produce a king-sized show that is entertaining with everyone, from stars to choruses, playing their parts well.

Music Man has all the necessary qualities for success—it's a good play with good music, an excellent director Jack Lawson and equally excellent music director Earl Proper. Friday night's production also uncovered a large talent bank. Eleanor Proper gives a magnificent performance as the zany mayor's wife, Eulalie MacKecknie Shinn; Cindy Marcus emerges as a new vocal talent in the role of the librarian Marian Paroo; Bob Santero gives a nice polished portrayal of the title role; and Tootie Larios with her "Ye, God!" and smooth dancing added another successful dimension.

The story line is well known—made popular on Broadway by such well known actors as Bert Parks. A fast-talking salesman of band instruments "cons" the staid citizens of River City is "saved." A cast of more than 57 contribute solidly to the production through singing ensembles, dancing, specialty numbers, love duets and comedy numbers.

The biggest surprise of the evening is Eleanor Proper's performance. Mrs. Proper is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and holds a BM in Voice and Opera. She studied for three years in Vienna and is a member of the Little Opera Company of Boston. She has done concert and recital work and Music Man is her first experience on stage for UCCC's Summer Music Theatre. Her departure from the norm is startling but her emergence as a comedienne was so outstanding she won an ovation opening night. Don't miss her!

Another delightful "find" is Cindy Marcus who portrays the librarian. At the "first night" reception held after the performance in Holiday Inn, Cindy told this reviewer she never had a formal vocal lesson. That bit of information was received in utter disbelief

Rehearsing for 'An Actor Prepares'

Members of the National Shakespeare Company's Summer Conservatory are shown in rehearsal for its upcoming production of "An Actor Prepares." These performances will be given at the Byrdcliffe Theater which has become a Woodstock landmark over the last 50 years. The programs will be varied, featuring material from one of Broadway's musical hits, a special program entitled "Shakespeare's World," contemporary material, as well as other classical literature. The programs will be given as benefits for three local organizations. On August 1 and 2, the benefit will be for the Woodstock Library; August 8-9, Woodstock Artists Association; August 14-15, American Field Service Scholarship Fund. Admission will be by contributions, with all monies going to the organizations. This year there are 26 young people from all over the U.S. participating. It is anticipated that many of them will become the familiar faces that will be seen on the Broadway stage, screen and television in the future.

Representatives from the seven YWCAs of the Hudson/Mohawk valleys have been holding a series of planning sessions for future group workshops, and for a mini-convention, the latter in preparation for next year's tri-annual National YWCA convention, to be held June 21-26 of 1976, at Notre Dame University.

Participating in these planning meetings have been representatives from the YWCAs of Albany, Hudson, Kingston, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Schenectady and Troy-Cohoes.

The premiere "7-Y Workshop", slated for late September, will examine many of the facets of accountability, including budgeting, community relations, volunteer leadership development, and membership.

The YWCAs of the Hudson/Mohawk Valleys consider these shared workshops important steps in the exchange of ideas, and in formulating the best in programs and services to their home communities. These first planning sessions have been initiated and hosted by the Kingston YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue, a United Way agency.

Nursing Home Observes Start of Bicentennial

Ferncliff Nursing Home for the Aged and Infirm, located in Rhinebeck, had its own unique way of celebrating the start of the Bicentennial. With the wisdom that comes with age, and an eye to the future, a Crimson King Red Maple was planted to commemorate the event. The residents felt that the present, all too soon, becomes the past, so with astuteness they leave this heritage: a tree growing straight and strong so future Americans will enjoy the fruits of their efforts.

Dennis Hennessey, Edward Baker, and Mrs. Catherine McOrmond had the honor of planting. Mary Moore, age 98, the oldest resident housed at Ferncliff, and Mother Edmund Francis, Administrator for the Home, looked on and gave their unanimous approval. The tree was donated by John Lobotsky of Wonderland Florist and Nursery.

Following the tree planting ceremony, Mother Edmund gave a brief speech. An allegiance to the flag was given, then voices sang out the refrains of the National Anthem. Silence filled the air and, according to a spokesman at the Home, strong faces of the aged held a rapt look which stirred the heart beyond words.

Reader Says ERA's a Right to No Privacy

DEAR ABBY: You indicated that you were in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment. I am amazed at you. Don't you know that if it becomes law, there will no longer be separate public restrooms for men and women? And the men and women will not have separate quarters in college dorms, prisons, schools, locker rooms and even public hospitals? Do your homework!

AGAINST ERA IN ILLINOIS

DEAR AGAINST: Do yours! In 1965, the Supreme Court established the constitutional right to privacy. This permits the separation of the sexes in all places involving sleeping, disrobing and all other private functions.

DEAR ABBY: I have been teaching Sunday school for five years. I teach first-grade children who are 6-years-old.

My problem is the pastor's son. This child pulls rank on me at every turn I make. He lets me know that because he is the pastor's son, I can't tell him what to do.

You can imagine what this does to me and the other children. I get absolutely no cooperation from his parents. The father is merely an older replica of his son.

What can I do to remedy this situation? I am fond of my class and love to teach, but I can't take much more verbal abuse or the kicking this child dishes out. I've bent over backwards to be nice to him but get nowhere.

MISTREATED

DEAR MIS: Discipline him as though he were the son of Joe Blow. And if he doesn't shape up, tell his parents to keep the boy home, or YOU'LL stay home.

DEAR ABBY: About that bride who wanted to lock the doors of the church five minutes before the ceremony: Most cities and states have laws against locking the doors of public buildings when people are assembled in them. The reason is obvious. Sign me.

FIRE MARSHALL

DEAR FIRE MARSHALL: You are right, of course. Now, why didn't I think of that?

DEAR ABBY: You gave good advice to the widow who didn't know what to tell people when they asked how her husband had died. (He committed suicide.)

I'd like to reinforce your view. Many years ago, when I was the editor of a small newspaper, one of the town's leading citizens, who was also an attorney and church leader, made some bad investments. Shortly thereafter, he killed himself.

His two daughters, who were my cherished friends, sent their boyfriends to ask me to please leave out that their father had committed suicide when his death was reported in the paper. The competing newspaper agreed to omit it if we would.

I refused, saying, "If we omit it, the girls will be living a lie for the rest of their lives. If we print the truth, it will be forgotten in 24 hours."

I published the truth and the family admitted afterward that I had done the right thing. They also bought 50 newspapers.

EX-CITY EDITOR

DEAR ABBY: Please put something in your column to shake up some of those thoughtless people who make stinging remarks to pregnant women.

I'm pregnant, and I've had people ask, "When's your due date?" And when I tell them, they say, "You'll never last that long!"

I've had some people ask, "Did your doctor tell you you might have twins? You sure look like it!"

And, "Are YOU still walking around?"

Then there are some women who insist upon telling you in detail what a hard time they had delivering their babies.

It's difficult enough to be pregnant without having to answer all those questions and listen to their frightening talk. Be a pal, Abby, and print this. It may help. Thanks.

OVERDUE IN ORLANDO

DEAR OVERDUE: Here's your letter. And many a woman who has walked a mile in your moccasins will identify with your situation and thank you.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Officers Elected

At a recent meeting of the Mid-Hudson Elmira College Club, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Miss Mildred Baker, Poughkeepsie, president; Mrs. Robert E. Deitrick, Poughkeepsie, vice president; Mrs. Gordon E. Wilcox, Highland, secretary; Mrs. C. Kenneth Taber, Milton, treasurer.

Miss Pamela Arnold of Woodstock was the recipient of the annual Mid-Hudson Elmira Scholarship.

Members are reminded to have samples of their handiwork at the home of Mrs. John W. Cavo by August 20 for display at Elmira College in the upcoming Octagon Fair on September 29. Mrs. Cavo and Mrs. Stanley Millsbaugh are local co-chairmen of the Fair, held annually on campus for the benefit of the Elmira College Library.

Loan Sale!

Save as much as 18% on our annual percentage rates for a limited time only!

Save on a new-car loan

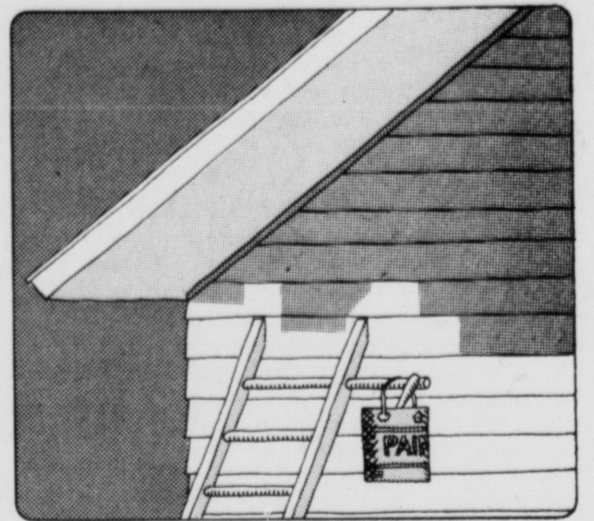

Save on a used-car loan

Save on a personal loan

Save on a vacation loan

Save on a home-improvement loan

Yes, we've really brought down the cost of borrowing. Brought it down as much as 18% on our annual percentage rates, as shown in the chart below. Our loan sale has to be one of the best bargains around, and it couldn't come at a better time. Because now's the time when you're probably thinking about that car you've been putting off, or that home improvement project, or some patio furniture, or a summer vacation.

Check the chart to see how much we've reduced our rates, and how small your monthly repayments can be. Then come in and let us help you work out the right loan for your needs and your budget. But do it now because good things like a loan sale must come to an end, and this one does—after a limited time.

Grand Jury Seeks Harness Probe

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A Sullivan County grand jury, saying harness tracks in New York are inadequately regulated against corruption, has recommended that the state investigate the industry.

The state's Organized Crime Task Force, under orders from Sullivan County Court Judge Benjamin Newberg, Monday released a grand jury report on Monticello Raceway, where harness racing's "richest" race was run Sunday.

A spokesman for the task force said Newberg Monday ordered that the report be made public.

The grand jury concentrated on exotic wagering and said it found evidence of tampering with the finishes in those races.

In one race, more than $76,500 was paid out to holders of a superfecta combination, which requires picking the order in which the first four horses finish. Of that amount, nearly $72,000 went to persons directly connected with drivers in the race.

Saying that most of the "questionable activity" uncovered dealt with tampering races involving the combination wagering, the grand jury said "a study should be commissioned by the legislature or executive branch as to the possible effect such exotic wagering may have on the racing industry."

The panel recommended that the state police be given a full-time role in uncovering racing abuses or that a separate agency be set up with statewide authority to look into track operations.

It also suggested that efforts be made to beef up the State Racing and Wagering Board, which is responsible for overseeing all legalized gambling in the state.

The panel also called for a state investigation of the effects of increasing the number of racing days in the state, because the expanded schedule diminishes the quality of the racing.

"The poorer the quality, the greater the opportunity is for tampering," the grand jury said.

It also called for tighter controls on the ownership of the horses and better training and compensation for trainers and drivers.

Present New York State laws have outlawed superfecta wagering, although most other forms of exotic or combination betting are allowed.

On Sunday, Monticello hosted the New York City Off-Track Betting Classic, billed as the richest harness race in history. It carried a purse of more than $230,500.

WINNING PITCHER JOE MENDOCK

ESOPUS' MIKE MARONEY IS OUT AT THIRD

Mendock, Foster Lead Esopus

GARY FOSTER CONNECTS

(Freeman photos by Kruh)

The strong pitching of Joe Mendock and the long-ball hitting of Gary Foster sparked District 16 Little League champion Esopus to a 7-2 victory over District 17 champion Hyde Park Monday evening.

Mendock gave up only three hits while striking out 10, walking one, and tossing just 85 pitches. The two runs off him were unearned.

Foster, Esopus' second base sparkplug, uncorked two homers and a single good for four runs.

The victory enabled Esopus, District 16 champs for the second year in a row, to a Saturday meeting against the winner of the Rome-Watertown game. This next state sectional contest will be played at 2 p.m. at the Hyde Park field.

first inning off losing pitcher Mike Conforti sent Esopus off and winging in Monday's encounter, the winners' first since capturing the District title last week.

Esopus made it 2-0 in the third when Dave Dahl led off with a double. Dahl then stole second and came home on a fielder's choice hit by Rich Letus.

Hyde Park got a run back in the fourth. Mendock had retired the first 10 men when Mike Mannix and Conforti socked back-to-back singles. A passed ball by catcher Rod Wolf enabled Mannix to score.

But in the fifth inning, Wolf helped Esopus put two runs on the board as he slammed a one-out single. After an infield out, Foster blasted his second home run of the game making the count 4-1.

Esopus iced the contest in the fifth when Dan Miller and Mendock walked, John Loughlin singled in Miller, and Dahl walked filling the sacks. Wolf then bounced a fielder's choice scoring Mendock. A walk to Letus again loaded the bases bringing up Foster, who drove in his fourth run of the game with a single.

A single, an infield out, a steal, and a passed ball gave Hyde Park its final tally.

Esopus had nine hits in all, two by centerfielder Mike Maroney, one of them a double.

One Streak After Another for Millan

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Felix Millan may become known as a streak hitter — one streak after another.

Millan's 19-game hitting streak, longest in the National League this season, was broken Sunday when the New York Mets ran into a four-hitter by Chicago's Steve Stone in the first game of a doubleheader. But Millan got two hits in the second game of that twinbill, then came to St. Louis Monday night and hit safely four more times to lead the Mets to an 11-7 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'm glad breaking the streak didn't slow me down," said Millan. "I was swinging the bat without any pressure against the Cardinals."

Millan hit two singles and two doubles, scored three runs and drove in three. He raised his batting average to .309 and has 36 runs batted in, three more than he had all of last season.

"Millan plays every game every day," said New York Manager Yogi Berra. "I hope he goes 14 more games for another hitting streak."

Berra also was pleased with the work of Bob Apodaca, who had not pitched since June 28 but relieved Jon Matlack in the sixth and held the Cardinals. Apodaca had been on the disabled list because his nose was broken by a line drive off the bat of Johnny Oates.

"I never had pain with my nose but I had the discomfort of not being able to breathe," he said. "But the breathing wasn't a problem while I was pitching. My nose is about the way anybody's nose feels at the tail end of a cold."

The Mets had a 10-4 lead when Apodaca relieved Matlack, whose record is now 12-8. Apodaca entered the game with the bases loaded and gave up a one-run single to Willie Davis, then struck out Reggie Smith on a curve ball to end the inning.

The Cardinals had baserunners in the next three innings, but the only runs came on a two-run homer by Ken Reitz.

Millan got two of his RBIs on a two-run single in the sixth when the Mets scored five runs. Del Unser contributed two RBIs in that inning with a single.

Tom Seaver (14-6) and Tom Hall (3-2) will pitch for the Mets in tonight's doubleheader against Lynn McGlothen (10-8) and Ron Leed, (9-8) for the Cards. In the final game of the four-game series Wednesday New York's Randy Tate (4-8) will oppose St. Louis' John Curtis (6-8).

Except perhaps for Danny Ozark, no one has ever confused Larry Christenson for Tom Seaver.

That is until Monday night when the Pittsburgh Pirates suddenly discovered to their dismay what Ozark, manager of the still-alive Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East, meant when he said a few months back that Christenson has the potential to be another Seaver.

The 21-year-old Christenson showed Seaver-like form in pitching the Phillies to a six-hit 5-2 victory over Pittsburgh that sliced the Pirates' NL East lead to 4½ games over Philadelphia.

"I've said before Christenson has the ability to become another Seaver," said Ozark afterward. "Tonight was a big step in that direction."

"We had to have this game," said Christenson, who last winter underwent arm surgery. "It put us in the other direction. For the first few innings I felt terrible, but then I got mad at myself and went out and threw fastballs and threw them good."

"It was my biggest game as a major leaguer."

Christenson, who struck out four and was touched for solo homers by Al Oliver in the fourth and Willie Stargell in the ninth, was aided by Dick Allen's two-run triple in the eighth inning that broke up a 11 tie. Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati downed San Francisco 8-4, Atlanta topped Los Angeles 5-3, San Diego blanked Houston 2-0, and Chicago put away Montreal 4-2.

Reds 8, Giants 4

Dan Driessen belted a three-run homer and Pete Rose contributed a pair of RBI doubles as the Reds, behind five innings of relief from Pedro Borbon, boosted their lead over the Dodgers to 13½ games in the NL West. It was the 44th consecutive game the Reds starting pitcher (in this case Gary Nolan) failed to go the distance.

Braves 5, Dodgers 2

Rookie Biff Pocoroba drove in three runs, two of them during a game-winning three-run rally off reliever Mike Marshall in the eighth, as the Braves dealt the Dodgers' 1974 Cy Young Award winner his 10th defeat in 16 decisions. Pocoroba's winning hit in the eighth came after singles by Earl Williams, Roland Office and Larvell Blanks had loaded the bases. Phil Niekro (11-7) went the route for the win.

Padres 2, Astros 0

Dave Freisleben yielded just five hits and drove in the winning Padres' run himself with an infield forceout in the fifth. It was the first shutout of the season for the 23-year-old Freisleben, now 5-10. Willie McCovey homered in the ninth for the other San Diego run.

Cubs 4, Expos 2

Jose Cardenal belted his first home run since May 31, a two-run shot with Rick Monday aboard in the fifth inning, helping the Cubs deal the Expos their sixth loss in the last seven games. Ron Bonham (10-6) went the distance for Chicago, striking out nine and yielding six hits.

Casey's 85th

Casey Stengel, who will be 85 tomorrow, is "glad to be alive" even though the doctors have ordered him to quit talking so much and save his strength. Casey however, seemed to be up to his old stuff as he posed for UPI at his Glendale, California home holding a handful of birthday cards and wearing his favorite cap. (UPI)

Vilas Can Look To Forest Hills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Guillermo Vilas was established today as a factor in next month's U. S. Open at Forest Hills with a masterful demonstration of clay court prowess that won him the $100,000 Washington Star International Tennis Championship without loss of a set.

Vilas took the $16,000 first prize by outlasting and outfinishing Harold Solomon, 6-1, 6-3, Monday night in a final that was interrupted an hour by a rainstorm.

In defeating Solomon, the Argentine southpaw turned the tables on his 22-year-old Silver Spring, Md. rival, who had won the event last year 1-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Vilas is expected to benefit at Forest Hills, where the Open will be played for the first time on the same clay composition court used in Washington.

Vilas said he planned no special strategy for beating Solomon, but said of the reversal of last year's result, "A lot of things can change in that time."

He said the rain interruption didn't particularly bother him. "If it rains, it rains," he said.

Solomon, however, cited the rain interruption as a factor. "I had hoped to keep him moving and tire him out, but that backfired," he said. "The rain interruption worked to my disadvantage."

"The court got slow and I couldn't get the ball by him." Vilas broke service against Solomon six of eight times in a contest marked by long rallies, one of which went on for three minutes and 18 seconds and involved 118 hits.

From 1-1 in the opening set, Vilas ran off five straight games, breaking Solomon's service twice.

Both players lost service at the outset of the second set. When play resumed after the rain delay, Vilas again broke Solomon at love of the fifth game and after deuce in the seventh game to take a 5-2 lead.

Solomon then broke Vilas' service, but the Argentina turned the tables, breaking Solomon at love to take the title.

In the doubles final, the number three seeded team of Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C. and Bob Lutz of San Clemente, Calif., defeated the top-seeded doubles team of Raul Ramirez of Mexico and Brian Gottfried of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 7-6, 2-6, 6-1.

Wiltwyck Tightens Junior Golf Race

ELLENVILLE The battle for first place in the Mid-Hudson Junior Golf Classic tightened a bit Monday at Shawangunk as the Wiltwyck team edged Huguenot Manor by one stroke and inched that much closer to the top of the nine-team standings.

Wiltwyck, with A.J. Maneen firing a 72 and Billy Collins coming in with 75, totaled 325 for the win over Huguenot Manor which had 326 led by Richie Siegel's 78.

Huguenot now holds a three-shot lead over Wiltwyck after five stops this summer. HM

Fisk's Return Solidifies Boston's Starting Lineup

By UPI

The rookies have gotten most of the raves, but the recent success of the Boston Red Sox could be easily summed up in two words—Carlton Fisk.

There's no doubt that the stellar play of rookies Fred Lynn and Jim Rice have been instrumental in the rise of the Red Sox to the top of the American League East, but the return of Fisk, an All-Star catcher, to the starting lineup has been the solidifying component.

Fisk, who suffered a broken arm in spring training, returned to the starting lineup on June 23 and over the last three weeks, about the time it has taken for Fisk to get back in the groove, the Red Sox have been practically unbeatable.

The 27-year-old catcher, whom many baseball men regard as the Red Sox team leader, enjoyed his best game of the year Monday night when he walloped two homers and drove in the winning run in the ninth inning with a bases-loaded single to lead the Red Sox to a 7-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers in a nationally-televised game.

Fisk's game-winning hit was his fourth of the game and scored Carl Yastrzemski to give the Red Sox their 18th win in the last 21 games. The victory boosted Boston's lead in the AL East to nine games over Baltimore.

"I was nervous as hell," said Fisk about his clutch hit in the ninth. "But I think it's better to be nervous up there. It puts you on your guard."

Fisk has been stinging the ball since Boston's four-game series with the New York Yankees this past weekend. In one of the games, he knocked in two runs with a similar single to put a game away for Boston. Although he feels he's finally getting into shape, he says he has a long way to go before he reaches peak performance.

"I'm pleased with my progress," said Fisk, who missed most of last season with a leg injury. "I've been seeing the ball pretty good for three weeks. I felt I was putting everything together during the Yankee series—my timing was back. I was hoping to be in top physical condition by the first week of August, but I feel like I'm a couple of weeks ahead of time."

"The broken hand in spring training was a blessing in disguise. I worked all winter getting my leg in shape, and then I got to spring training and found it wasn't anywhere near as good as I'd hoped it would be. And when I broke my wrist it gave me that much more time to strengthen my legs."

In other AL games, Cleveland nipped Baltimore 7-5 in 10 innings, Detroit blanked New York 3-0, Minnesota edged Kansas City 9-8, Chicago beat California 3-2 and Oakland routed Texas 12-6.

Indians 7, Orioles 5

Charlie Spikes, who homered earlier, singled in two runs in the 10th inning to give the Indians a victory over the Orioles, who had rallied for three runs in the last of the ninth to tie the game. Rico Carty also homered for the Indians while Bobby Grich connected for Baltimore.

Tigers 3, Yankees 0 Bill Virdon, the harrassed manager of the New York Yankees, at least learned Monday night that a pep talk is not the solution to his team's slump.

Virdon held a clubhouse meeting before the Yankees' game with the Detroit Tigers and in his usual low-key manner called on the players to unite and make a big effort to climb back into the American League's Eastern Division race.

But instead, the Detroit Tigers scored a 3-0 victory over the Yankees behind the six-hit pitching of Vern Ruhle. It was the third straight shutout suffered by the Yankees extending their string of scoreless innings to 27 in a row.

The Yankees had lost two shutouts to the Boston Red Sox on Sunday.

The loss dropped the Yankees 11 games out of first place when the Red Sox beat the Milwaukee Brewers in their Monday night game.

The Tigers scored their first two runs in the second inning on a leadoff homer by Willie Horton, a walk, Aurelio Rodriguez' single and a double play.

Rookie Ron Guidry walked in the Tigers' third run in the ninth.

Ruhle, who didn't allow more than one hit in any inning, raised his record to 9-7.

Twins 9, Royals 8

Lyman Bostock's fourth hit of the game drove home the winning run in the ninth inning to give the Twins a victory over the Royals and snap new manager Whitey Herzog's undefeated streak at four games. Jerry Terrell also had four hits for the Twins while John Briggs and Rod Carew homered. Cookie Rojas had a solo homer for Kansas City.

White Sox 3, Angels 2

Nyls Nyman's two-run single triggered a three-run fifth inning that enabled the White Sox to defeat the Angels. Wilbur Wood, with relief help from Rich Gossage, won his 10th game in 24 decisions while Frank Tanana suffered his sixth loss in 15 decisions.

A's 12, Rangers 6

The A's took advantage of three Texas errors to score five runs in the sixth inning and defeat the Rangers. Paul Lindblad picked up eighth relief victory without a loss and Reggie Jackson hit his 26th homer, his sixth in the last eight games, as Oakland won for the seventh time in the last nine games to boost its division lead over Kansas City to 10½ games.

The Pause That Refreshes

Youngster fills two glasses at new mineral water fountain which made its debut in the paddock of Saratoga Race Track Monday. The Spa's opening — its 108th — drew 17,626. The feature, the $35,000 added Schuylerville, was won by a longshot, Nijana, which paid $18.60 for the 1:12.1 six furlong dash. (UPI)

BASTEN District Clerk STATEMENT OF ULSTER COUNTY LEGISLATOR LOUIS M. KLEIN Dated July 25, 1975 For the past several months I have heard and witnessed several accusatory statements aimed at Ulster County Superintendent of Highways, Jose Camallonga. However, because of pending investigations, first by the New York State Department of Highways and more recently by the Ulster County's District Attorney's Office, I have remained silent believing that these investigations should be permitted to run their course before a public statement should be made. However, today I have witnessed something which has caused me to change my position and to enlist the support of the citizens of Ulster County on behalf of previously announced efforts to convene an immediate and thorough investigation.	tion of the Ulster County Highway Department. Among many of the complaints that have been leveled against Mr. Camallonga, is one which accuses him of being an autocratic and despotic department head. Although having heard this remark, until today I observed no first hand evidence of its accuracy. Today, however, I became aware of charges which have been brought by Mr. Camallonga against one of his employees, Thomas Leahy, Jr., wherein he specifically specifies a charge of dismissal as follows: "You called in an 'Open Mike' program on Station WGHQ on September 26, 1974, and accused the County Superintendent of Highways of talking to you in a tone of voice that was abusive. The comments made on that program were disturbing to the orderly and efficient operation of the Ulster County Highway Department." While I respect the need for a department head to maintain the loyalty of his employees, I and every American, must give greater credence to freedom of speech as a constitutionally afforded right. Mr. Camallonga's accusation says that Mr. Leahy's statement was embarrassing to his department. Nowhere does it say that such statement was false. Employees of the County of Ulster are employees within the public domain, and owe a responsibility to the public they serve of providing information. The citizens of Ulster County recently witnessed considerable controversy rightfully brought to their attention by County employees because of their "embarrassing statements." Though embarrassing, they were correct and they led to a correction of a wrong. Mr. Camallonga's apparent effort to stymie the employees from expressing their feelings and improving their working conditions appears to me to be a blatant act of demagoguery and cannot go unchallenged. The Ulster County Legislature has expressly committed itself to a desire to maintain and induce an improved relationship with its employees, by among other things, opening the channels of communication and recognizing their right to speak out. As a member of the Ulster County Legislature, I abhor Mr. Camallonga's action as I would any other department head in attempting to stymie these rights as they affect employees of his department. We are part of a democratic government, and as much must demand democratic rule from our department heads. I will not, and cannot, allow myself to remain silent when one of our department heads has apparently chartered a course of dictatorship, committing himself to a policy of suppressing free speech to perpetuate his own existence.	NOTICE OF CHANGE IN ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE On July 14, 1975, Central Hudson Gas &amp; Electric Corporation filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York amendments to present electric rate schedule P.S.C. No. 14 - Electricity, to become effective August 14, 1975. The major changes proposed by this filing, as it affects all customers, are set forth in the following comparison of present and proposed rates for individual classes of service. # Government Index Up Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government index that predicts future economic trends rose for the fourth month in a row in June, the Commerce Department said today, giving further evidence the nation has snapped out of the crippling recession.

The index of leading economic indicators rose 1.9 per cent last month and is now at its highest level since October, 1974.

The last time the index increased four straight months was September-December, 1972, almost a year before the recession got underway.

An upturn in the index during a recession has usually meant the bottom of the economic slump is close at hand.

After a virtually uninterrupted two-year decline, the indicators began rising in March, about the time economists figure that the economy's growth rate leveled off or began to rise slightly.

Based on information from nine of the 12 indicators that make up the composite index, the June index was 1.9 per cent above May.

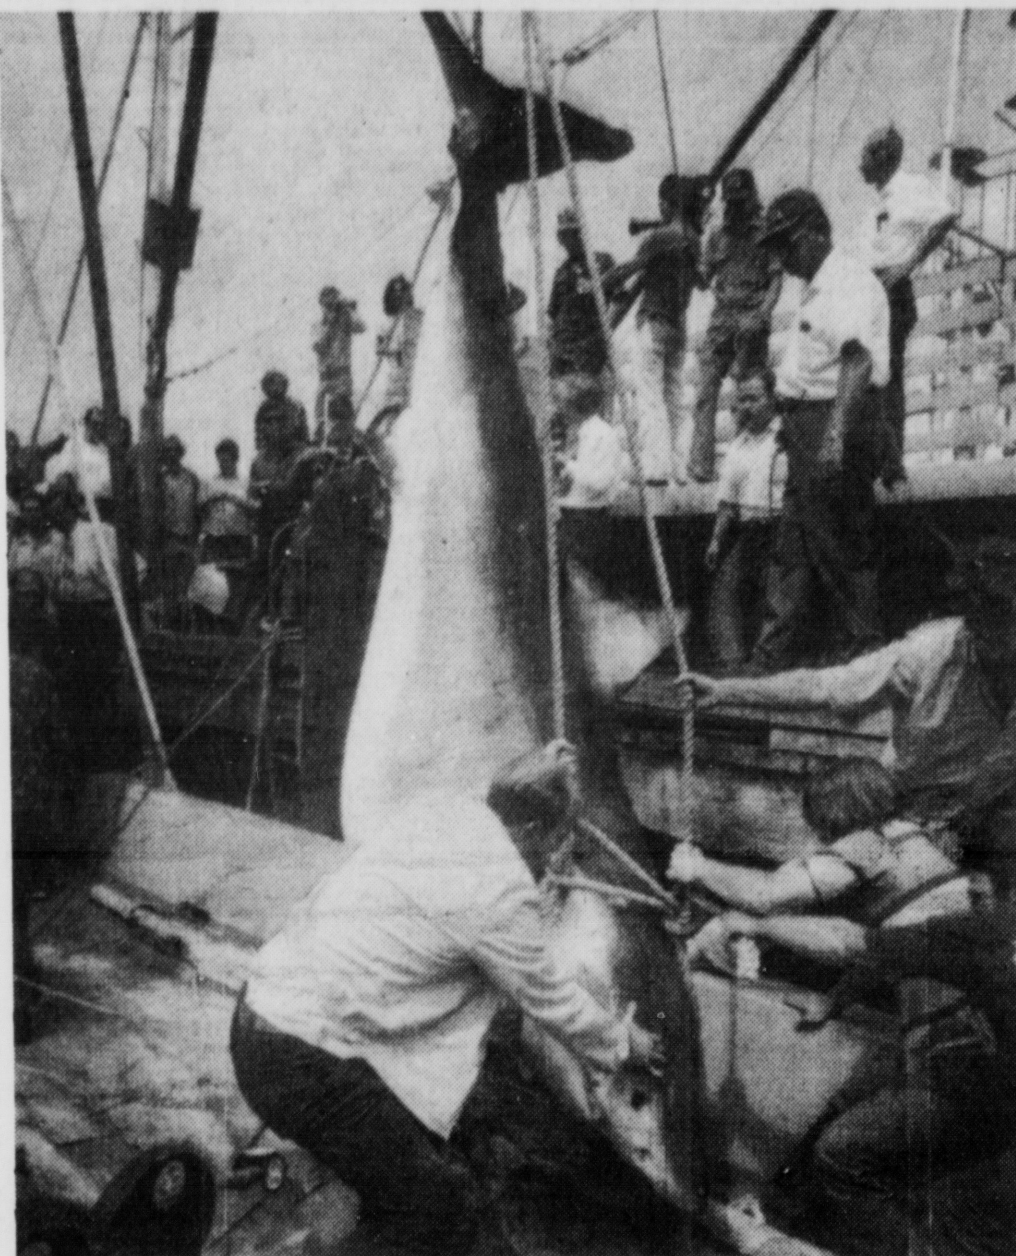

Eight of the nine indicators available for the preliminary report rose last month.

They were: length of the average work week, delivery performance by vendors, change in total liquid assets, change in sensitive commodity prices, stock prices, money supply, new orders for consumer products and materials and building permits.

One indicator, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, fell in June.

Data for the remaining indicators — layoff rate in manufacturing, net business formations and change in inventories — will arrive later and be used to revise the June figure.

The index now stands at 98.3 compared to 113.7 in June, 1974, and 121.7 in November, 1973, when the recession started.

Mother of Jaws?

A 14-foot great white shark marine biologists say may have been pregnant when it was harpooned off Catalina Island is hauled off the commercial fishing boat Heather B Monday near San Diego, Calif. A dockside examination showed the 2,000-pound shark had an abnormally large girth, indicating it might have been about to litter pups. A complete examination, including gutting, will be performed later at Sea World. (UPI)

Coup Is Reported In Nigeria

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Lt. Col. Joseph Nnamdi Durbani today ousted Nigerian head of state Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon in an apparently bloodless coup, Lagos radio reported.

The Lagos radio broadcast said the new leaders imposed a dusk to dawn curfew and ordered all but essential service vehicles off the streets. Lagos international airport was closed and telecommunications cut.

The radio said authorities would deal severely with anyone disturbing the peace.

Gowon, 40, who himself took power in a coup in 1966, was attending the summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity in Kampala.

He was informed of his ouster while listening to a speech by a United Nations representative.

He remained silent for several minutes, smiling broadly at newsmen and aides clustered around him, then left abruptly. He made no immediate comment.

In July, 1966, then Lt. Col. Gowon, the Nigerian army chief of staff, staged Nigeria's second military coup in seven months. President Gen. J.T.U. Aguiyi-Ironsi was slain in the coup.

Gowon announced Aug. 1, 1966, that he had taken control of his country — Africa's most populous, with 56 million people — and would "shoulder the responsibility of the nation and the army."

Sporadic tribal violence in Nigeria exploded in July the following year when the eastern section of the country proclaimed a republic in Biafra supported by the minority Ibo tribe.

Nearly three years of civil war between Nigeria and the Biafrans followed, ravaging the country and leading to massive refugee problems and starvation. Peace finally came on Jan. 15, 1970.

Gowon's economic policies sparked rapid expansion of the oil industry, currently placing Nigeria, a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, among the top world petroleum producers.

Man Dies In Fire

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — Lawrence Young, 23, died early today when fire destroyed his mobile home at the Cloverleaf Trailer Park on Route 211 near this Orange County city.

State police said Young's body was found in bed by firemen. He was alone in the trailer home.

Obituaries

Hof

Floyd L. Hof, 61, of Bloomingburg, N.Y., died in Middletown Sunday, July 27. Surviving are his wife, the former Maria Hauschild; two sons: August of Midland, Mich., Floyd of Los Angeles, Calif., a brother, August Hof of Kingston and a sister, Mrs. Helen Faby of Kingston. He was a member of Shawanga Mountain Post 4947 VFW of Bloomingburg. Funeral services will be held at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Kingston, Thursday at 10 a.m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday 7-9.

Hagenlocker

Mrs. Beulah T. Hagenlocker, formerly of 283 Richmond Parkway, died at Livingston Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hagenlocker was a native and life long resident of Kingston. She was a daughter of the late Harry and Leila Tronson. Her husband, Martin Hagenlocker died in 1938. Prior to her retirement, she had been employed for many years at the former National Ulster County Bank. Mrs. Hagenlocker is survived by several cousins. Funeral will be held at the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home Inc., 15 Downs Street, Thursday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Charles Stickley, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Friends will be received at the funeral home Wednesday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9.

Davis

Louis Davis, 84, one of the area's original New York State Troopers and who for many years has been serving as an Ulster County Deputy Sheriff, died Monday afternoon following a short illness. Mr. Davis was also a chef by trade and in his earlier days owned and operated several restaurants. Mr. Davis resided at 69 West O'Reilly Street. He was born in Rosendale and had lived in Kingston most of his life. He was a veteran of World War I and was a member of Old Company M and Kingston American Legion Post 150. Together with the late Dr. George F. Chandler and James Gaddis who died recently, he served with the area's original State Troopers. His wife, the former Marcella Burns, predeceased him in 1960. Surviving are two daughters: Miss Eileen Davis at home, Mrs. Joseph (Marjorie) Ziembra of Santa Monica, Calif., six grandchildren, several nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held from the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home, 411 Albany Avenue, Thursday at 9:15 a.m.; thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 10 a.m. a Mass of the Resurrection will be sung. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Concert Is On Again

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A controversial rock concert at the state fairgrounds, postponed by State Agriculture Commissioner John S. Dyson last week, is back on again.

Dyson said Monday the concert was tentatively scheduled for Sept. 2.

He said details still needed to be worked out, but he noted the concert would come the day after the state fair closes.

The concert had originally been scheduled for Aug. 23, three days before the fair opens. The fair runs through Sept. 1, Labor Day.

The postponed seven-hour concert is expected to feature such groups as "Jefferson Starship," "The Doobie Brothers," "The Beach Boys" and "America."

Local newspaper editorials and other criticism had sparked Dyson last week to accuse the critics of disliking young people.

However, after conferring with Gov. Hugh L. Carey, Dyson later announced he had tentatively postponed the concert pending further study.

Dyson said the concert was expected to net the state $50,000 to $75,000 and draw a crowd of 50,000 to 75,000. The state fair handles from 85,000 to 100,000 persons daily.

Kilmer

Earle E. Kilmer, 68, formerly of Rhinebeck, died suddenly Sunday, July 27, at Halifax Hospital, New Smyrna Beach, Fla. Mr. Kilmer worked at one time for the Rhinebeck Floral Company, later purchased and operated the business. He was also an auto body repairman and worked for the former Community Garage of Rhinebeck, the Rickert Auto Body Shop and Boyce Chevrolet in Red Hook. He retired in 1968 and had resided in New Smyrna Beach, Fla. Mr. Kilmer was born in Rhinebeck, the son of the late Elmer Kilmer and Edith Ten Eyck Kilmer. He was married Aug. 12, 1934 to the former Evelyn Marshall, who survives. He attended Rhinebeck High School and was a member of the United Methodist Church of Rhinebeck; charter member of Red Hook Rhinebeck Lodge of Elks 2022; life member of Rhinebeck Fire Department; former member of Red Hook Golf Club; the New Smyrna Beach Yacht Club; New Smyrna Beach Golf and Country Club and was affiliated with the New Smyrna Beach Elks Club 1557. In addition to his wife, he is survived by a brother Fred W. Kilmer Sr., of Rhinebeck and a nephew, Fred W. Kilmer Jr., of Rhinebeck who is the present chief of the Rhinebeck Fire Department. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday 11 a.m. at the James A. Hughey Funeral Home in New Smyrna Beach, Fla. Burial will be in Rhinebeck Cemetery at the convenience of the family. Local funeral arrangements are under the direction of William E. White Funeral Home, Rhinebeck.

Memorial
In loving memory of our other, Jennie Miller, who passed away nine years ago today. A million times we've needed you. A million times we've cried; If love alone could have saved you. You never would have died. In life we loved you dearly, In death we love you still; In our hearts you hold a place No one else can ever fill. It broke our hearts to lose you, But you don't go alone. For part of us went with you. The day God took you home. Mavis Shurtler Doris Glass Sarah Malone and families.

- A SENSE OF BELONGING; BEING PART OF THE TEAM

- PRIDE IN THEIR COUNTRY. . . THEIR COMMUNITY . . . AND IN THEIR SELF.

This Corps, from a small beginning, has grown to over 200 members. There are two Corps who represent the Kingston Indians, one being the Troop #12 Indians consisting of boys and girls from age 8 through 14 and the Post #12 Indians, made up of young men and women between the ages of 14 and 21. The Post #12 Indians have become a truly competitive Corps, representing the City of Kingston and the County of Ulster, in almost all of the eastern states. They have brought a feeling of pride and accomplishment both to the youths involved and the communities they represent.

Ambushed!

American Indian Movement leader Russell Means was shot and wounded while driving near Mission, South Dakota on Monday. He apparently was not seriously injured and said it was the work of two policemen and a federal informant. (UPI)

Schuler Optimistic

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — State Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler, who rejected the United States Railway Association's preliminary plan four months ago, says he is "cautiously optimistic" about the final plan for reorganizing the Northeast's bankrupt railroads.

The USRA Final System Plan was presented to Congress Monday. That body has 60 days to accept or reject the idea.

Schuler said major changes in the final plan led to his new evaluation. They include, he said:

— Competitive service throughout the Southern Tier and to Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and New York City are assured by the plan, which stipulates the Chessie System would acquire the Erie Lackawanna line.

— Service at all points on the Delaware & Hudson Railroad would be improved.

— Branch lines previously slated for abandonment or subsidy are recommended in the final plan for incorporation in either the Chessie System or the Consolidated Rail Corp.

Schuler said, however, that the relationship between Conrail and the commuter passenger service of New York City required further study.

Criminal action in the case was brought in June. A grand jury refused to indict on a felony, referring the case back to justice court.

The trial lasted more than six hours with Christopher and Regina Cross accusing Donald Van Valkenburgh and Charles E. Berryann of cutting timber on their land during a period from December of 1973 to February of 1974. Van Valkenburgh is in the tree removal business.

The jury was picked around 7 p.m. Friday night, heard the case until after 1 a.m. and returned with its verdict five minutes later. It found both men innocent.

Robert Ortale represented Berryann while Joseph Qualter represented Van Valkenburgh. John Dal Vecchia represented the district attorney's office. The case was heard before Town Justice Edwin L. France.

Bid Is Opened

KINGSTON Kingston Sanitation of Second Avenue was the only bidder, at $75,000, on a two-year contract for the collection of city garbage at bid openings held by the Department of Public Works on Monday.

The Kingston firm had the existing contract which called for a yearly charge of $60,000 for the three routes specified. The $15,000 increase represents a hike of 25 percent in cost over the past two years.

Woodrow M. Diehl, administrative assistant at the DPW, presided at the bid opening. Contracts expire July 31. The Board of Public Works will meet Aug. 6 to review Kingston Sanitation's offer.

Your Astrograph

For Wednesday, July 30, 1975
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 It's time to enjoy yourself doing "fun" things socially with friends, but if you splurge it'll bother you later.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 You get satisfaction working around the house to benefit the family. Avoid overdoing or you'll end up grouchy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Today you'll be about so much you could run into someone who's looking for an argument. When you do, keep it cool.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 You perform well today in anything you put your hand to. Don't spoil it later by telling others how good you are. They know.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Travel will make you nervous later, though you've enjoyed an active day on the road. Plan to pack it in early.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 If you're called upon to help a friend financially, do it without advertising later. He or she considers this confidential.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 It's a perfect day to change tactics in negotiations, as you've been contemplating. Do it before the sun goes down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 Keep yourself involved in physical or athletic activity. Shun situations that could lead to verbal confrontations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Though you accept the terms before you tackle the job, you could later feel you've been gyped when the pay check comes.

Your Birthday

July 30, 1975
 The year ahead will be one of many changes for you. You'll travel, possibly alter your mode of living and meet a lot of new acquaintances. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

TEEN FORUM

TOO FAR: (Q.) I lost someone I loved very much. He got too far one night. Then he lied to our friends about it. He said we went all the way. That isn't so.

I'm a virgin and I want to keep it like that for a while. But I'm tense and scared about sex and boys. I'm scared this guy has given me a complex.

I have a new boy friend now but can't enjoy going out with him. Please help me.—15 in Florida
 (A.) You made some mistakes. You fell for a boy who couldn't be trusted and who talked too much. You went further than you wanted to. You felt guilty. Also hurt.

All of us make mistakes. All of us feel guilty at times. All of us get hurt at times. It is not necessary, though, to have complexes if we learn from our mistakes and avoid repeating them.

When you are out with your new friend think about HIM—not the boy who lied about you. Enjoy yourself and him, but don't let things get out of control.

INTUITION: (Comment) This is for Marie who was very disappointed because her mom wouldn't let her hang around with her friend.

Moms seem to have an intuition about friends. My mom warned me, but I wouldn't listen, and one day I got arrested. Listen to Mom, or think about it. I got burned, but I finally learned.—15 in Massachusetts.

(A.) A mother's advice usually stems from a deep and strong concern. Therefore, it is worth listening to.

No Call for Blackwood Bid

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

The Blackwood convention works so well on so many occasions that some players feel they must use it on the way to all slams.

This is a serious mistake. There are many hands that call for some other approach to a slam.

One case is when you hold a worthless doubleton in a suit that has been bid by the opponents or even one that has not been bid at all.

If North uses Blackwood he finds out that his side misses an ace. How can he contract for a slam with two diamond losers staring him in the face?

Instead North invites the slam by bidding hearts and clubs and jumping to five spades. The message rings loud and clear. He asks South to bid the slam if he can handle the second diamond lead.

South obliges and South collects 12 easy tricks, game, slam and rubber.

Congress to Continue Diego Garcia Naval Center

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite warnings it might draw the United States into new conflict in Asia, the House and Senate have voted separately to continue expansion of a U.S. naval facility on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told the Senate during a five-hour debate Monday: "I'm sick and tired of sending American men and women to fight, or be placed in a position where they have to fight, unless it is for the security of the United States. Vietnam was not. Diego Garcia is not. We are considering a new and dramatic adventure in South Asia."

But the Senate voted 53 to 43 against Mansfield's resolution which would have blocked $18.1 million in fiscal 1975 funds, and an anticipated $13.8 million for 1976, to enlarge the installation.

The House Monday rejected by voice vote an attempt to knock the $13.8 million for 1976 out of a military procurement bill.

In other arms developments:

— President Ford told the House in a message: "It is difficult to overstate the importance of the major installations we will lose in Turkey" unless Congress reconsiders its embargo on military aid to that country. As a result of the embargo, Turkey has begun taking over bases used by the United States there.

— There is a breathing spell in the debate over administration plans to sell Jordan $350 million in arms. The administration withdrew its proposal from Congress but plans to resubmit it. Congressional consideration may not come until September. Critical legislators hope that by then, the administration and Jordan will have worked out a smaller deal.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, called the planned expansion of Diego Garcia "the first act of a scenario identical to that which took us into the quagmire of Vietnam."

Voting Rights Bill Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has passed and sent to the White House for signature a seven-year extension of the voting rights law which in the last decade has enfranchised more than a million blacks.

Final congressional action came Monday in a 346-56 vote by the House without debate.

Ford is certain to sign the measure, even though he wanted a five-year bill which would have broadened coverage to include all states.

The House originally passed a 10-year extension but accepted the seven years approved by the Senate to avoid giving southern opponents a chance to stall the bill past its Aug. 6 expiration date.

The law originally was enacted in 1965 to end voter discrimination against blacks. It covers seven entire southern states and parts of others. The seven are Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

They must submit all proposed changes in their election laws to the U.S. attorney general for approval. Federal registrars, examiners and poll watchers can be sent into the states to make certain blacks are not denied the right to vote.

The voting rights act frequently has been called the most successful of civil rights bills ushered through Congress in the 1960s. It is credited with registering more than a million blacks and the election of 1,000 black public officials.

The extension permanently bans all literacy tests and broadens the law by providing coverage to Spanish-speaking Americans and other minority groups. It requires that states provide special bilingual voting instructions for language minorities.

Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the strategically located "supply dump and filling station" would be crucial in supporting U.S. fleet operations and protecting the flow of Persian Gulf oil to the non-Communist world.

The Pentagon wants the expanded base to counter what it says is a growing Soviet military presence in the area. It says the Russians have set up a missile-handling facility at the port of Berbera, Somalia, a claim the Somali government denies.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said he will introduce a resolution calling on Ford to seek negotiations with the Soviet Union on limiting naval deployment in the Indian Ocean and Persian Gulf.

Meanwhile Turkish officers replaced the American commanders of 12 military installations today as part of the announced takeover of two dozen U.S. bases in Turkey, the armed forces reported.

The bases included four intelligence-gathering installations, an air base, a fleet navigational aid station and six communication and supply facilities.

"Turkish command teams started their duties on July 29," an armed forces spokesman said.

The United States suspended military activities Sunday at Sinop, Karamursel, Pirinlik and Belbasi, all electronic surveillance stations monitoring troop movements in the Soviet Union, U.S. officials said.

The officials said operations had also been suspended at Kargaburnu navigational aid station and Incirlik air base.

Memories of a Death Camp

OSWIECIM, Poland (UPI) — Oswald Kaduk rose in the prisoner's dock a decade ago and yelled "liar, liar" at a prosecution witness.

The witness, speaking through sobs that came when he saw the men who kept him in Nazi Germany's bloodiest death camp, had just testified that Kaduk — a former Nazi SS torturer noted for killing with an alpenstock — murdered his brother with a blow from the mountain-climbing pick.

"You lie. You lie. I killed him with no alpenstock," Kaduk shouted in the Frankfurt, Germany, trial. "I killed him with my bare hands."

So monstrous are the deeds at Auschwitz that the incident gained but a few lines in the record of the 21-month-long trial of the men of Auschwitz. But Tuesday's visit by President Ford may remind the world, as well as the chief executive, that Auschwitz is a monument to just how inhumane man can be to his brother.

Between 1940 and 1944, at Adolf Hitler's order, the former railroad siding at what used to be called Auschwitz but is now called Oswiecim grew into perhaps the world's biggest death factory.

Commandant Rudolf Hoess, hanged by the Poles after World War II, struggled with the problem of how to kill efficiently, and at least cost, the Jews and other non-Aryans dispatched to Auschwitz by SS Lt. Col. Adolf Eichmann's roundup squads throughout German-occupied Europe.

They tried mass machine-gunnings but there were all those graves to dig and so many bullets wasted. Hoess developed Zyklon-B, a poison as cheap almost as whiskey and deadlier than bubonic plague.

Hoess and his men devised the city of barracks that fed the victims into gas chambers disguised as mass shower-houses. With the victims inside and the door locked, the SS men would drop pellets of Zyklon-B into a cup of acid in the roof and the rest was left to the squads picking over the corpses for gold teeth fillings, hidden rings and other valuables, and human hair to feed Hitler's war machine.

Hoess took pride in the fact that Auschwitz and its companion women's camp, Birkenau, kept acres of munitions factories at work as well as the gas ovens.

Estimates from Allied and legal records indicate that between four and six million persons, mostly Jews, perished in Auschwitz.

The Communist government of Poland turned the stinking remnants of Auschwitz into an open-air museum. It no doubt served their anti-West German policy in the Cold War years but it also reminded the not frequent Western visitors what man, unleashed, can do.

Africans Want Israel Out

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — The Organization of African Unity is expected to demand the suspension of Israel from the United Nations, setting the stage for a possible diplomatic confrontation with the United States.

Diplomatic sources said today the African and Arab leaders attending the 12th annual OAU summit meeting would approve an Egyptian resolution calling for Israel's suspension.

Ugandan President Idi Amin, the new chairman of the 46-nation organization, opened the conference Monday and promised not to "embarrass" the rest of the members.

The continent's leaders called their first working session this morning to take up a series of controversial resolutions, including the demand for Israel's U.N. suspension.

Conference sources said the Egyptian resolution, which calls for Israel's suspension as long as the Jewish state allegedly ignores U.N. resolutions, would be approved late this week.

But Egyptian officials have expressed private reservations about trying to implement the suspension — a move that could lead to a diplomatic confrontation with the United States.

The United States has expressed increasing concern about calls for the ouster of Israel from the United Nations, saying the move would be counterproductive to the ideals of the world organization.

Diplomatic observers said the United States would be drawn into the controversy on the side of Israel if the Arabs and Africans bring up the issue at next fall's General Assembly sessions.

At the opening of the summit, Amin called for crushing South Africa and Rhodesia unless the white supremacist countries grant immediate rule to their black majorities.

"If South Africa and Rhodesia cannot accept immediate majority rule, they must be forced to militarily," he told the delegates after being unanimously elected chairman for the next 12 months.

At least three nations — Tanzania, Botswana and Zambia — boycotted the conference to protest Amin's election, the most controversial in the organization's 12-year history.

Meanwhile on the war front, an Israeli tank force crossed into southern Lebanon today and clashed with Lebanese troops for an hour, a military spokesman in Beirut said. Israeli sources denied the incident occurred.

A Beirut spokesman said the Israeli armored force crossed the Lebanese frontier this morning and moved to the outskirts of the village of Aita el Chaab.

He said Lebanese "artillery gunners and forward positions" attacked the Israeli raiders and "other Lebanese troops moved to the region."

The spokesman said the Israelis withdrew under fire an hour later. He reported six houses in the village slightly damaged "by bullet fire."

There were no casualties, the spokesman said, but "our patrols returning from the scene of the fighting have determined that an Israeli tank was hit by our fire."

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli military source questioned about the reported incident said "nothing happened at all."

Former U.S. Senator Edward Gurney of Florida is shown outside Federal Courthouse in Tampa after six man, six woman jury began deliberations Monday. Gurney, the first U.S. Senator since 1924 to be indicted in office, faces 42 years in prison if convicted on all counts of alleged conspiracy, bribery and perjury. The 61-year-old Republican has remained in seclusion throughout most of the 22-week trial. (UPI)

Heat Withering Corn Crop

By United Press International

In the battle between the heat and a projected bumper corn crop, the weather seems to be winning.

Corn is withering in 100-degree heat in the nation's midlands. Farmers can only look imploringly at the sky and hope for rains that could save the crop and end the threat of a second straight year of drought-vanquished efforts.

Corn leaves lay scorched by the blazing sun in many parts of Iowa.

"The drought period is beginning to take its toll with firing of corn becoming more widespread and the condition of crops declining," the Iowa crop and livestock reporting service said Monday.

The dry weather threatened to cut into projected record yields in Iowa, and crops in South Dakota, Missouri and Kansas also were threatened.

"There's no question we need rain and need it bad," said Bill Duitsman, supervisor of the experimental agriculture station at Hays, Kan. "It's high time we had rain."

Some areas of Kansas haven't felt rain for more than six weeks, but a Kansas agriculture official said the state still could provide good crops if rains come in another week to 10 days.

University of Missouri agronomist Ray Kimmel said the corn crop "has been cut 10 to 20 percent from its potential for a full yield" in the southern three-quarters of Missouri.

Suspect Nabbed

MIAMI (UPI) — A young man arrested with blood-spattered clothing "looks like a pretty good suspect" in a two-week wave of savage robbery-beatings that killed three men and turned Miami's skid row into "dead man's row," police said today.

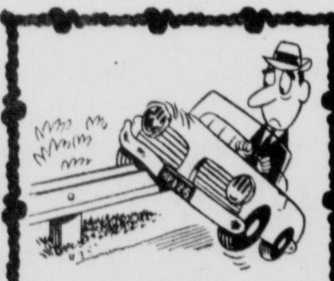

The man in custody was Tommie Lewis Murrell, 21, police said. He was charged with robbery and assault with intent to commit first-degree murder in an attack Monday morning on a middle-aged drifter who lived in an office in an abandoned downtown Greyhound bus terminal.

The victim, still unidentified, was in poor condition, with half his face torn away from a beating with a shovel handle.

Police spokesman Jim Kellish said the man in custody "looks like a pretty good suspect for all five attacks."

Murrell was arrested a block from the recently abandoned bus terminal. He had been seen earlier standing across the street from the terminal.
